IT is evident that an abiding interest has been felt, in the last few years, in the increase and improvement of all domestic animals.

The causes which operated in bringing about this existent interest need not here be stated, beyond the fact that the demand for, and the consumption of every kind of farm product incident to our greatly increased population, and a much more extended occupancy of our best farming lands throughout the entire Union, have served, not only to arrest attention to the science of Agriculture in general, but also to elicit the patient investigation of every question admitting of possible and probable advantage connected with judicious or economical husbandry.

These investigations and experiments have been, properly, directed to the ascertainment of the comparative value of the naked vegetable production with that of the animal grown and fattened by them, and, to the determination of such breeds or races, among the many, as will, it is believed, most effectively answer the ends of every desirable want or real utility.

Results the most satisfactory have been reached, and an unmistakeable assurance arrived at, relative to the superiority of one race over another.

It need scarcely be indicated at this late day WHERE this excellency exists; as public sentiment and the prevailing high prices, both in England and America, clearly indicate it.

Among horned cattle, the Durhams, for more than half a century, have held pre-eminence over all others, in every essential quality; and so important has been esteemed the propriety of correct genealogies that 11 volumes of the English and 3 of the American Herd Book, containing more than 9,000 pages, have been published within the last 25 years.

Independent of the encouragement given to the breeder of such stock in America, through the medium of County, State and National Fairs, their special adaptation to our soil and climate, and the highly remunerative prices obtained by the breeders for the produce of their herds fully guarantee their more general adoption.

From a conviction of these facts, aided by observation almost from childhood, the subscribers determined, more than six years ago, to employ every facility in their power for the establishment of a small but SUPERIOR herd of such cattle. What success has attended their efforts, they leave to be adjudged by those who have seen and purchased of their herd, and who may hereafter feel inclined to call and examine them.

The following catalogue is published as a more tangible reference of their own, and designed to answer in a satisfactory and condensed form many enquiries concerning their stock.

It has been found impracticable to embrace the pedigrees of Cattle which they have heretofore bred and sold, and hence the following list includes only such as are now upon their farms, lying between the old Frankfort road and the Versailles pike, 8 miles from Lexington and  $2\frac{1}{2}$  miles from the Yarnallton Depot, on the Lexington and Frankfort Railroad.
